Each fall semester, The Panetta Institute for Public Policy, located in Monterey, provides select CSU students with an intensive two-week training course on the workings of the U.S. Congress, then sends them to Washington, DC, \textbf{all expenses paid}, for 11 weeks to serve for a California member in the House of Representatives. In Washington, interns will attend special seminars with government leaders, journalists, and policy experts. \textbf{Students majoring in any subject are eligible to apply.}

The internship covers all expenses, including air travel, and food and lodging while in Monterey and in Washington, DC. Each intern also will receive a stipend to help cover other expenses. Interns may earn up to 20 semester credits through CSU Monterey for the semester.

\textbf{STUDENT ELIGIBILITY:}

- U.S. citizen and State of California resident
- Upper division undergraduate: Junior or Senior in Fall 2015 (120 units maximum)
- Superior academic achievement (3.3+ GPA)
- Demonstrated commitment to community and public service and leadership
- Excellent English oral and written skills to interact with constituents appropriately
- Willing to live in assigned group housing during the entire 11 week program
- Never been disciplined under the CA Code of Regulations, Title 5, Article 2, Sec. 41301.
- Undergo a background check
- At the time of the personal interview, proof of health insurance that is compliant with the Affordable Care Act.

\textbf{Tasks:}

- Willingness to accept entry level work and take on assigned tasks as team player
- Provide tours of Capitol Building
- Draft correspondence, attend hearings, take notes and provide reports
- Conduct issue/legislative research

\textbf{For More Information & Application Packet Contact:} Jose R. Lopez at jirlopez@sfsu.edu

\textbf{Application Deadline:} Monday, Feb. 16\textsuperscript{th} by 5pm (HHS 206)