

International House

The College of Humanities

Teach Us Who You Are!

The International House is a social program in the College of Humanities, a place where all students from various backgrounds gather on the first Wednesday of every month to exchange ideas in an open forum, and to share their cultural heritage on topics of their choice such as language, poetry, literature, faith, politics, invention, arts, music, film, food, etc.

We Want To Know You!

Share your views , your performance, culture and language, read a poem, watch a film, show your invention, give a lecture....
