University of Seoul (<http://english.uos.ac.kr/>)

The University of Seoul is a public university funded and supported by the Seoul Metropolitan Government. The University is located in Seoul, the capital of Korea for more than 600 years, and known as the economic, political, and cultural center. The character of the University, the faculty, academic programs, and research institutions is shaped by Seoul's metropolitan dynamic. Its faculty, students, and administrative body is distinguished by its commitment to civic values and a dynamic urban civilization. Along with basic research, it functions as a think-tank in formulating and supporting the major policy goals of the Seoul Metropolitan Government. With diverse and specific programs that integrate research and policy, practice and education, the University of Seoul seeks a balance between academic and professional concerns, between visionary goals and practical research.

Global Center for Urban Sciences

The University of Seoul has set the clear goal of becoming an international center for the urban sciences. These range from environmental and civic engineering, architecture, urban planning and landscape design to public law and administration, taxation science, economics, urban sociology and management. More recently, the university has diversified this base to include the arts and humanities. In the area of science and engineering, the university has concentrated on the development of information and media technology. With Korea's largest and finest group of human and informational resources focused on the future of the world's city, it boasts a unique array of research institutions working on the solutions to its problems and creative visions for its future.
